Foreword

Dr. Sang Joo Kim
PRESIDENT
(August 26, 2008–Present)

The National Academy of Sciences, Republic of Korea (hereinafter, NAS), was inaugurated on July 17, 1954, and entrusted with the duty of promoting the development of sciences and culture. Founded on the legal basis of Culture Protection Act promulgated on August 7, 1952, the NAS initially comprised 50 members.

On March 25, 1954, fifty members were selected: twenty-five from the humanities and social sciences and twenty-five from the natural sciences. Thirty-four years later, on December 31, 1988, the Culture Protection Act of 1952 was replaced by the Act of the NAS. The ceiling of the NAS membership expanded into 150, totaling 142 as of 2011 : 69 in the Humanities and Social Sciences Division and 73 in the Natural Sciences Division. The NAS is subdivided into 11 sections and each member belongs to one of these 11 sections.

As a national institution of topmost scholars and scientists of the nation, the NAS provides advices and recommendations for the government on national policies on science and education. As part of its program for the promotion of science, the NAS sponsors one annual international symposium and holds a number of sectional seminars. It also publishes various research outputs, journals, and bulletins of its own.

The NAS will keep on making its effort to promote science. In the years ahead the NAS will make more effort to strengthen its academic exchange and cooperation with international science organizations. It will continue to play its due role nationally and internationally.

4. Organization

■ Table of Organization

■ General Assembly

The General Assembly, the highest decision-making body of the NAS, is responsible for approving admission of its members, regular and honorary, ratification of the NAS Award recipients, election of its President and Vice-President, enactment and amendment of its operational and other rules. The annual general meeting is held in July and ad hoc meetings to handle special matters are held whenever deemed necessary.

■ Division Meetings

The NAS consists of two divisions: one is the Humanities & Social Sciences Division and the other the Natural Sciences Division. Division meetings are held to deliberate and decide on the election of its regular and honorary members and the selection of the NAS Award recipients.

■ Board of Directors

The Board of Directors is composed of 4 executive directors (President, Vice-President, 2 Division Directors) and 11 Section Chairs. The Board reviews and votes on the matters delegated by or proposed to the General Assembly and also such matters as deemed necessary by the President. Both President and Vice-President are elected by the General Assembly and their term of office is two years and renewable once. Directors of the Humanities & Social Sciences Division and the Natural Sciences Division are elected at the respective Division meetings and their term of office is one year and renewable once. Section Chairpersons are elected by the members of each Section and their term of office is one year and renewable once.

■ Section Meetings

All members of the NAS belong to a section depending on their field of study. There are 11 Sections in all, 6 in the Humanities & Social Sciences Division and 5 in the Natural Sciences Division. Each section holds 6 meetings a year, in which research works of members are presented and discussed, membership and honorary membership candidates are screened, and a preliminary review of the NAS Award is conducted.

■ The Screening Committee of the NAS Award

The recipients of the NAS Award are selected through a rigorous 3-step screening process: the preliminary screening by each Section, the divisional review by the Screening Committee of the two divisions, and the final decision by the Comprehensive Deliberation Committee. Each Screening Committee is composed of 15 or less members and the Comprehensive Deliberation Committee of the President, Vice-President, two Division Directors and 11 Section Chairpersons.

■ 1. The NAS Award

Presentation of the NAS Award

The NAS Award was established in 1955, in accordance with the Culture Protection Act, to further the advancement of science in Korea. The National Academy of Sciences presents the NAS Award to Korean scholars and scientists who have made significant contributions to the development of sciences through research and academic pursuits. A total of up to 6 from Humanities & Social Sciences Division and the Natural Science Division are awarded each year.

As of 2011, a total of 212 scholars received the NAS awards. Awardees are presented with the Letter of Citation and an emblem, plus a cash prize of 50,000,000 won (approximately USD 43,000).

The selection of recipients is made in accordance with the "Regulations of Award of the National Academy of Sciences Prize". All the successive recipients of the NAS Award are listed (pp. 30-34).

The NAS will make an effort to increase the number of recipients.

■ 2. International Symposium

The NAS holds its annual International Symposium in October. The symposium is intended for the exchange of academic knowledge and promotion of goodwill among scholars of the world. The 1st International Symposium was held in 1960 and the 38th International Symposium in 2011.

The 38th International Symposium was held on October 21, 2011, in the Grand

Conference Hall of the NAS, with "Stability and Growth of the Korean Economy in the New World Order" as its theme.

■ 3. Korea-Japan Science Forum

The NAS holds the Korea-Japan Science Forum to enhance the academic activities and to promote the mutual understanding and cooperation between the two academies. Under the theme of "World History and Life Science", the 6th Korea-Japan Science Forum was held in Hoam Faculty House of Seoul National University from September 27 to 29, 2011. The 7th Korea-Japan Science Forum will be held in Tokyo, Japan from September 25 to 27, 2012.

■ 4. NAS Seminars

To promote the development of science in Korea and to advise the Government for the formulation of enlightened policies the NAS hosts one academic research seminar and one policy research seminar every year. The objective of these seminars is to derive maximum advantage from the latest results of scientific researches as well as the expertise and professional knowhow of the NAS members. The academic seminar and the policy research seminar are held in May and November, respectively. Seminars other than these two are also organized by each Section once a year.

Academic Research Seminar - 2nd Session, 2011

■ 5. NAS Research Grants

As a measure of continuous support for research activities of the members, the NAS Research Foundation provides selected NAS members with research grants every year. A total of 17 research projects are carried out annually—11 projects, one each from 11 Sections, 2 projects, one each from 2 Divisions, 2 projects for the Academic Research Seminar, and 2 projects for the Policy Research Seminar. Each project is funded by a grant of a fixed amount. Results or findings of these projects are presented either at the Section seminars and the Policy Research Seminar. They are also published in the Journal of the NAS and distributed to domestic and overseas academic organizations. Findings of Policy Research projects are conveyed to relevant ministries of the Government for their reference and utilization.

■ 6. Collaborations with Foreign Academies

The NAS is making every effort to establish collaborative relationship with foreign academies for the development and exchanges of sciences. In 1990 cooperative relations protocols were established between the NAS and the Israel Academy of Sciences and Humanities and in 1992 between the NAS and Academie des Sciences of France. In 1993 the NAS signed similar protocols with the Chinese Academy of Sciences, the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, the National Academy of Sciences of the United States, and the Royal Society of London, respectively. Cooperative relationship was also established between the NAS and the British Academy in 1995 and between the NAS and the Norwegian Academy of Science and Letters in 1996. Again in 1997 the NAS signed protocols for academic cooperation with the Royal Swedish Academy of Letters, History and Antiquities and with the Mongolian Academy of Sciences. In 1998 the NAS exchanged a letter of cooperation with the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences and the Memorandum of Agreement on academic exchanges with the Japan Academy.

It is expected that international academic partnership and exchange will grow substantially in 2010 and the years to follow.

■ 7. Affiliated Research Institutes

In 1990 protocols for academic cooperation were signed between the NAS and various research institutes including the Academy of Korean Studies and the Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology. Active academic discussions and exchanges of information often take place at international, as well as national, levels.

■ 8. Participations in International Conferences

To help promote international academic cooperation and enhance academic programs at home, the NAS participates in the meetings of various international science organizations on behalf of the Republic of Korea.

These organizations include the International Foundation for Science (IFS), International Council for Science (ICSU), Pacific Science Association (PSA), Union Académique Internationale (UAI), Federation of Asian Scientific Academies and Societies (FASAS), International Geosphere-Biosphere Programme (IGBP), InterAcademy Medical Panel on Global Health Issues (IAMP), Science Council of Asia (SCA), and Inter-Academy Panel (IAP) and International Social Science Council (ISSC)

- 1) Since the NAS joined IFS in 1973 it has been taking part in its general meeting held every three years.
- 2) The NAS joined ICSU at its 9th general meeting in 1961, and has ever since been dispatching two delegates to its general assembly held every three years.
- 3) A NAS delegation attends every PSA or PSC (Pacific Science Congress) meeting, contributing to the promotion of academic exchanges in the region since the NAS joined PSA at its 9th meeting in 1957. It held its 16th General Meeting in Seoul in 1987.
- 4) Since it joined UAI in 1977, the NAS has been sending two delegates to its meeting every year. As part of UAI's research activities, the NAS published A Korean Language Atlas in 1993.

- 5) Since the NAS joined FASAS in 1987, the NAS delegate has been attending both its council meeting and international symposium held once every year. The NAS held FASAS council meeting in Seoul in 1993. Dr. E-Hyock Kwon was elected vice-president of FASAS in 1992.
- 6) Since 1995, the NAS has actively participated in IGBP activities. The NAS supported the 9th SC-IGBP Meeting and International Workshop in the Asia region held in Seoul respectively on October 18–22 and November 11–13, 1996.

- 10) The NAS joined ISSC in 2000, and has been actively participating in the ISSC's general assembly and symposium.

In the years ahead the NAS will attempt to actively take part in research projects conducted by those 10 international science organizations. Through these international activities the NAS hopes to share, more than anything else, the vision of human welfare with international science organizations.

■ 9. The NAS Research Foundation

The NAS established Research Foundation in April 1986 to provide substantial assistance for the NAS members' academic activities. The basic assets of the Foundation were created with contributions from the NAS members as well as from economic organizations. The President of the NAS serves as Chairperson of the NAS Research Foundation. Directors include former Presidents and public personages. The major programs of the Foundation are to provide the NAS members with research grants, to subsidize their academic meetings and exchange activities with foreign scholars, to help them participate in international conferences, and to support their academic publications.

■ 10. NAS Publications

To facilitate various academic publications and to review the papers contributed to the Journal, the NAS has created "Regulations of the NAS Publications Committee".

- 1) The NAS Journal, published annually, consists of two volumes: one for the Humanities and Social Sciences and the other for the Natural Sciences. The Journal carries two theses from each of the eleven sections of the NAS. Since its first issue that came out in 1959, forty-nine volumes have so far been published.
- 2) The NAS Bulletin is issued every year. The Annual Bulletin contains a brief introduction of the NAS and its major annual project reports. The outcomes of membership seminars and individual activities are also included there. In 2009 the 50th issue of the Bulletin was published (its first one out in 1957). The Bulletin copies are distributed to foreign academies, major universities and institutes at home and abroad. The Bulletin is issued biennially in English.
- 3) The bibliographies compiled for various academic fields used to be published either every year or every other year. It contains the abstracts of the articles selected from among the many academic articles published in Korea and those published by Korean nationals abroad since 1901. The first one was a Bibliography of Korean Language and Literature published in 1966. The last one, the 55th Volume in the series, was a Bibliography of Communication and Electronics which was published in 1999. They were distributed to foreign Academies, major university libraries and other domestic academic institutes.

- 4) Proceedings of International Symposium, available in Korean and English, have been published since the 3rd International Symposium held in 1975. They are also distributed to foreign Academies, major universities and institutes at home and abroad.
- 5) For the purpose of providing references for those scholars at home and abroad who are interested in Korean Studies, the NAS published in 1983 An Introduction to Korean Studies, covering the politics, economy, social and cultural aspects, and history of Korea. It was written by leading NAS members and scholars in related fields. It was distributed to foreign academies and institutes of Korean studies. Its English version was out in 1986.
- 6) The NAS publishes a series of "The Development of Science Study in Korea" (in Korean) for the purpose of providing references for the scholars at home and abroad who are interested in the development of sciences in Korea. Its leading contributors are NAS members and scholars in the related fields and these series are scheduled to be published annually. The first one of this series which appeared in 2000 for the Humanities and Social Sciences Division was on Western Philosophy, Aesthetics, Religion, Psychology, Pedagogy, and Eastern Philosophy. And as for the Natural Sciences Division, its first publication was on the field of Chemistry.
